On Congregational Conflict

Rev. Bill Graves

We UUs seek to belong to “beloved communities” but, unfortunately, disruptive conflicts between members or between members and the minister arise all too frequently. Maybe it’s related to our individualism as in “leading UU’s is like herding cats.” I can say this from the perspective of serving for many years on our Pacific Northwest District Healthy Congregations Team whose job is to help congregations get through conflict afflictions. I am also currently serve in our UU Ministers Association as a Good Offices Person and my job its to assist UU ministers who are in troubled situations. I have seen disgruntled members of four congregations split off and attempt to form their own separate congregations (all ultimately unsuccessfully). I have seen attendance and pledge support fall off precipitously, as people not involved in the conflict often prefer to stay home than be present in a toxic environment. I have seen a number of congregations go through the painful process of barring disruptive persons from future congregational activities.

I am not bringing this up because of any significant, current conflict at KVVUC that I am aware of. I am bringing it up because, unfortunately, there is a good chance that will come about in the future and it is far better to have policies and procedures in place that can be turned to when the time occurs, than not. I also am bringing it up because our Council on Ministry supports us doing something along this line. They are aware of instances in the past where members expressed dissatisfaction concerning another. After nothing was done to address the situation the persons simply stopped attending.

Therefore, I will be offering for the board’s consideration a conflict resolution policy and procedure adapted from one used in other congregations. Stay Tuned!

Springtime Blessings,

Rev. Bill

Rev. Bill Graves

A Hearty Thank You!

I was so gratified to see how well supported our Interfaith Alliance, Earth Day, work party at the IOOF cemetery was. According to my count approximately 80 volunteers from at least seven different congregations, or unaffiliated, worked like beavers, accomplished 90% of the cemetery board’s “to-do” list, then enjoyed lunch and camaraderie in the gymnasium of the L.D.S. church next door. I saw 17-KVVUCers pitching in and the salads we supplied were magnificent. Thanks so much to Vivian for organizing the salad brigade. I started new friendships with three Mormons, an Episcopal, a Presbyterian and a Buddhist and checked in with many of my old interfaith friends. One of the goals of the Interfaith Alliance is to facilitate conversations and connections across religious, political and class boundaries so that we might better work together for the common good. We feel that is especially important at this time of widening polarization. An idea we are pursuing has been called “sideling up to difference.” Instead of plunging people with radically different world views into a difficult conversation on subjects such as race or abortion, our idea was to facilitate some opportunities to build trust and some familiarity. We would also highlight Earth Day by working together to nurture an earthy garden. We did good methinks.

SUNDAY SERVICES

May 13, 11 am

"If Not Now, Tell Me When"

Rev. Bill Graves

As we begin our 2018 pledge drive make way for "The Sermon on the Amount." We will explore what it means to be a transformative community where the gifts of each are nurtured and given for the good of all. Only through "The Fire of Commitment" will we succeed in our mission of transforming each other and our world. Jan Jaffe and the KVVUC choir will be singing.

Play "Name That Tune" Win A Prize!

In the above paragraph are embedded the titles to two songs we will be singing. Rev. Bill will award a prize to the first person who reads this and correctly identifies to him the two songs.

ADULT CLASSES

"Our Long Strange Trip:
UU History in Depth"

In February we began a six-session series exploring the great story of UU history based on a video series called "Long Strange Trip" by Ron Cordes.

Thursday, May 10, 7 pm
(Veggie pizza, 6:30)

Part 5—"Evolution, 1861 - 1960"

This is the story of the continual interplay and conflict between advocates for new ideas (e.g., evolution science, the social gospel, humanism, anti-institutionalism, universal religion) and guardians of deeply held ideas, values, and ways of doing things. This session also highlights Unitarian and Universalist women of the 19th century who worked in their time to make the world a better place.

“HELP HEAL THE WORLD”

Goldmine Youth Leadership School Edmonds UU Church, WA July 7–12

- Application deadline: May 15
- Fee: $425, 1/2 deposit 5/30, bal 6/30

Goldmine is for you if you've...

Volunteered for a cause...Worked on a committee...Held an office...Taken part in a worship service...Attended a meeting...Felt moved by an issue... Organized an endeavor...Participated in a discussion...Been involved in a conflict Or wanted to do any of these things...

Goldmine is not a camp, nor is it a retreat. Goldmine is an immersion event that can result in a significant change in the life of a young person, in a community, and in the larger world of Unitarian Universalism

Goldmine is about bringing a community of youth and adults to a turning point with the potential to engage a new level of understanding, confidence, clarity, and depth about what it means to be an inspiring, skillful, and humble leader. It's an event that can change the way we think and act as Unitarian Universalists, and it is an investment in our future.

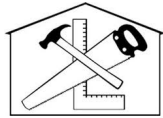

Details and registration at <https://www.uua.org/pacific-western/youth-ministries/events/goldmine-youth-leadership-school>
